MANAGEMENT

It starts with soup.

That's right, being self-sufficient is the first step towards being prepared for an earthquake or other emergency.

Stock up on at least a week's worth of food, water, and medicine. And make sure you can stay warm if the power goes out.

It isn't a question of if a catastrophic earthquake will hit the Pacific Northwest, only when.

Doing nothing
means you're counting
on others to take care
of you. The island way
is to be prepared.
Keep it simple,
start today.
